Fabulous 20th century history of Fashion as portrayed through film and Celebrity Icons - 4 Stars !!!!By Richard of ConnecticutPrinted in China, published by Abrams, the book is a gift for the price. In 479 pages, the editors take you through the modern history of fashion through film. Every page has a beautiful picture associated with it. They are basically all stars or celebrities, and they are stars wearing fashion. Fashion is about what's hot at the moment. Style is timeless.You will see Jackie Kennedy in Coco Chanel and Audrey Hepburn in Breakfast at Tiffany's. The whole gambit of Hollywood is in this book because Hollywood is fashion. We see Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield in movies from the 1950's. This book is a blast from the past, and the present for that matter. Some of the more interesting chapters were:* The Little Black Dress* Jeans* The Suit* The Bikini* The Miniskirt* The Sheath Dress Each chapter or section is introduced with a 3 or 4 page commentary on the nature of the garments showcased in the chapter. This commentary is well written, and should be read by those who seek out this book. It is very additive in setting up the chapter. If you are into fashion, I highly recommend that you spend time with this new Abrams book. Richard C. Stoyeck
