The Football Widows Instructional Playing Cards deck serves as a handbook for understanding the game of football, from Pop Warner Football to high school football to college football to NFL football. Starting from the basics, the card game explains the rules of football, the rules governing football players, who is responsible for what on the field, and culminates with a series of football plays, describing the actions that might take place and the strategies behind them. The purpose of the deck is to educate those who want to enjoy football with their spouses, partners, and friends. The deck tries to assume no familiarity with sports in general. The cards in the deck, published in 1998 by the U.S. Games System, measure 2 7/8x 4 inches.
