Elena T. Kissel : GreenTalk (Table Talk) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised GreenTalk (Table Talk):

Get kids thinking about greener choicesBy JojosparrowLike the other decks in the TableTalk series, this one is a terrific way to get conversations started around the table or on long car rides etc. GreenTalk, however, has the added benefit of providing ideas to talk to kids about the choices THEY can make everyday for greener living. GreenTalk manages to do this without being lecturey. Each card gives a fact about an environmental topic with a question for kids to think about and discuss. A lot of these have to do with recycling and how great the impact can be from simple lifestyle changes. The wording and the cute graphics make the topics very accessible and engaging. Schools and camps may find these decks useful also.

Each colorful deck presents fascinating facts and intriguing questions. A fun way to get conversations rolling at home, in schools, at parties, or while traveling. There are no right or wrong answers. Just pick a card and start talking!
