Stewart F. Lane : In the Wings: The New Romantic Comedy About Show Business (21st Century Plays) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised In the Wings: The New Romantic Comedy About Show Business (21st Century Plays):

The script of the acclaimed Off-Broadway comedy. Two aspiring young actors in love with each other and the theatre get their big break when they are cast in a new musical written by their Svengali-like acting teacher, Bernardo. But when the show moves to Broadway, only Melinda is asked to move with it. Can love stay alive on the Great White Way? "Most people know me as a producer," says Stewart F. Lane, "but once upon a time, I struggled to make a living on the other side of the footlights which formed an ideal real-life foundation for this romantic New York comedy."
