Not Much Nature in this CollectionBy B.EastmanPerhaps I was a victim of my own expectations, but from the title and description I was looking for photos of beautiful women tastefully posed in natural settings. There were a handful of nature photos, some with and some without women in them. Most of the photos were women in heavy makeup, some liberally covered in random swathes of colorful powder for no apparent reason, posed in awkward positions and photographed at unusual angles with strange framing methods. In other words, they were ultra-artsy. This is not 'natural beauty,' Mr. Houston.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Beautiful but not as the internet portays it.By Dr. James M. Clark Jr.Beautiful book of art. Emma Watson is NOT nude in this book. Not even topless if that is what you were waiting for. Not worth the money as far as I am concerned. I bought it for the collectors value, but there will be very little value at all. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Four Stars By Mark Kim interesting book

New York-based photographer James Houston is a leading beauty and celebrity photographer. For his latest project, Houston has shot luxuriant, saturated color portraits of some of the world's leading environmentally conscious celebrities--(including Adrian Grenier and Emma Watson) and supermodels (including Christy Turlington, Elle Macpherson, Arizona Muse and Anja Rubik)--each with nature as the inspiration for the portrait. The models have been photographed with a simple natural object for example, drift wood, stone, coral or metal, or graphic images of natural objects that depict human form with the beauty of nature. The book will include an introduction by Matt Petersen, President CEO of Global Green USA. Houston's project aims to raise awareness about environmental issues, and to raise funds for Global Green USA.

In this project commercial photographer Houston combines two abiding interests: gorgeous people and the environment. Drawing on his Rolodex, the beauty and fashion shooter depicts models and celebrities including Emma Watson, Christy Turlington, Adrian Grenier, and Elle Macpherson. To raise awareness and funds for environmental issues, he will donate proceeds to Global Green USA. His images blend radiant skin tones with surprising backdrops and bursts of color--some more naturalistic than others.
