Love Jonesin' Crosswords--Only Ones To Compare to New York TimesBy carol irvinUpdate: I now get my weekly Jonesin' Puzzle by going to the Jonesin' Crosswords Group on Google Groups. Anyone can join and it is free. You play the puzzle on Across Lite, which is a free download from the Groups Jonesin' page. Put these four words in the Google search engine to go there: Google Groups Jonesin' CrosswordsI love these puzzles and the book is great fun which I took out to my swimming pool during the summer. I also started doing the online interactive Jonesin'

puzzles, created by Matt Jones, a syndicated puzzle master. They appear online once a week on Tuesdays. I pick it up at the Pantagraph web site which is one of the alternative newspapers in which Jonesin' appears. Pantagraph has an interactive correcting device so you can see when you make a mistake. You can turn this feature off if you want more of a challenge. These appear in college newspapers. It is a younger, hipper yet educated audience which goes for the Jonesin' Crosswords. For one, Jonesin' will use words and concepts which are considered too racy by other Crossword makers. These are very challenging puzzles. I'd say on a par with the Wednesday or Thursday New York Times Crosswords. This is something completely different in Crossword concepts and Tuesday is now my favorite Crossword day. Friday's entry will always be weekend entertainment recs from my 5 star reviews in film, tv, books and music. These are very heavy on buried treasures and hidden gems. My blogspot is published on Monday, Wednesday Friday. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. When is the next installment??? By Nikki Pro I'm a huge crossword, and loved this collection of alternative puzzles. As the foreward explains, it is definitely NOT your grandmother's crossword puzzle, but that's what made me love it! It was a real challenge instead of the predictable clues you find repeated over and over in every puzzle. Can't wait for Mr. Jones to release a new collection!!!
